SKILLS

Discover the world;
Learn about farm animals;
Fine motor skills.

PUZZLES

Allow children the time they need to familiarize themselves with the activity before beginning. Only when they're ready, ask them to assemble the animal puzzles. The self-correcting pieces will help them to work by themselves. If you feel it might help, make the game a little easier by starting with the two-piece puzzle before moving on to the three-piece, then the four, getting to the five-piece puzzle last. Whatever you choose, always encourage the young learner to compare the puzzle pieces with the pictures on the front and back of the box, to enable them to complete the puzzles by themselves.

FARM ANIMALS

Once the puzzles are complete and you have the children's attention, point to the animals and say their names out loud. Progressing, you can then add some additional information like, "A sheep gives us wool," "Milk from a cow gives us yummy cheese." As a final step of the activity, prompt the children with simple questions while pointing to an animal, "What is this animal with long ears called?", "What noise does a dog make?"
